Showdown On Plans For Pay Slash Near

HOUSE leaders are preparing for a showdown next week on a Democratic-sponsored Federal pay-cut bill that may not only strike at civil government workers, but reduce as well the pay of Army, Navy and Marine Corps personnel.

Chairman Joseph W. Byrns (Democrat), Tennessee, of the special House economy committee, plans to offer the measure as a rider to the legislative appropriations bill, which will be reported to the House Monday.

Despite thunderings of pay-cut opposition, and formal protests of the American Federation of Labor, Representative Byrns and his economy committee of seven were this week wrestling with sixteen different salary reduction plans in an effort to decide on one that the full committee could support.

Drastic proposals considered ranged from a flat 10 per cent cut that would pare alike the salaries of the lowest paid private, seaman or clerk, to the highest paid general, admiral or department head.

Despite a growing prospect that those drawing salaries under $1,000, the great body of which is found in Army, Navy and Marine Corps enlisted ranks, may be exempted from any cut, no one of the sixteen plans has yet been thrown entirely into the discard.

The proposal which seemed to command the most general support would provide for a straight 11 per cent cut on all pay in excess of $1,000. The plan would yield an estimated $67,000,000 in savings, and members insist the revenue item is their sole purpose in cutting salaries. On a $1,100 salary the saving would be $11; on a $1,200 salary, $22; on a $1,600 salary, $66; on a $2,000 salary, $110, and so forth.

The sole member of the committee who fought pay reduction of any nature was Representative John J. Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, chairman of the House Expenditures Committee. In an effort to stem the salary reduction tide, Representative Cochran introduced a three-fold program for retirement, curtailment of annual leave and non-filling of vacancies.

Mr. Cochran claimed but little support for the proposal. Under its terms some 5,000 veteran employees whose terms of service had been extended would be retired. Annual leave would be cut to 15 days or less. No vacancies would be filled without consent of the President, and there would be no promotions.

There are nearly a dozen graduated scales suggested for reducing salaries, ranging from 1 to 20 per cent on salaries starting at $1,000 or under. It has even been suggested that exemptions are extended to $2,000, but as the great bulk of Federal personnel draws $2,000 or less, leaders point out that in order to realize the desired revenue they must start cutting low.

Advocates of a graduated method of reductions are led by Appropriations Chairman Byrns, who announced he would oppose in committee any of the straight percentage cuts proposed. He put forward probably the steepest of graduations, one that would yield approximately $80,000,000.

A "compromise" plan put forward by Representative William Williamson (Republican), South Dakota, for awhile was in committee favor. It would begin with a slash of 1 per cent on salaries starting at $1,000, and would work up to a 10 per cent cut on salaries of $5,000 and over.

This bewildering maze of pay-cut plans all evolved from four plans submitted Monday by a special "pay-cut" subcommittee, headed by Representative (Please turn to Next Page)

Substitute For Navy Class Bill Considered

A SUBSTITUTE plan for commissioning the 1932 Naval Academy class, whereby but two-thirds of the graduates this year and in succeeding years will be commissioned ensigns of the line, is being considered by the Senate Naval Committee.

The bill which passed the House several weeks ago authorizing the commissioning of the entire 1932 class, has been taken up by the Senate Committee and although members of the group are sympathetic with the plan to do something for the 1932 class, several Senators are opposed to the House bill.

Members of the committee point out that the House measure will simply take care of the 1932 class, and by increasing the actual strength above the authorized strength cause the same situation to arise every year for the next few years. There is opposition not only to permitting the officer strength to continue above the limit prescribed by law, for a long number of years, but also to a situation they feel is bound to arise—that Congress will refuse to grant similar legislation next year or the year after, thus throwing out the whole class that year.

It was with this in mind that the proposal was advanced of authorizing the commissioning in the line of a percentage of this year's class and a like percentage of succeeding classes until the effect of the cut in the number of appointments to the Naval Academy made last year is felt, and all graduates (Please turn to Next Page)

Consider Service Engineers To Administer Public Works

PROPOSALS that the Administration of Public Works be placed directly under the Chief of Army Engineers, or under the Army and Navy construction chiefs as "ex-officio administrators," is being given serious consideration in a House expenditures subcommittee.

Headed by Chairman John J. Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, the subcommittee, comprising Representative William Williamson (Republican), South Dakota, and Representative William M. Whittington (Democrat), Mississippi, was busily at work redrafting one or two sections of the bill.

It appeared that in the main the draft of the bill for consolidating all public construction projects under one administration, as proposed by Representative Williamson, would be used in lieu of the Cochran measure, although any bill reported would be in the committee chairman's name.

While the revised draft of the public works bill was rapidly taking shape, there was virtually no progress reported in subcommittee on bills to consolidate the War and Navy Departments into one Department of National Defense, action on which has been deferred three times by the main committee.

Chairman Cochran Thursday succeeded in reporting out his first consolidation measure. It would merge all personnel activities of government—the Civil Service Commission, the Personnel Classification Board, the Bureau of Efficiency, and civil retirement features of the Veterans' Administration, under a Civil Service Administration, at an annual estimated saving of $1,000,000.

Representative Whittington, who throughout the hearings on the public works bill staunchly insisted that the Army Engineers not be disturbed in their rivers and harbors work under the new set-up, is now attempting to (Please turn to Page 699)

Hold Joint Sessions On Army, Navy Funds

JOINT conferences of the House War and Navy appropriations subcommittees, which began March 18, were continued throughout this week, as the Navy appropriations subcommittee prepared to begin marking its bill.

Among the items under consideration, which subcommittee members are attempting to bring to an equitable adjustment for both Services, are per diem allowances for Army and Navy mess, Representative W. A. Ayres (Democrat) Kansas, chairman of the Navy appropriations committee, said.

He denied any significant alterations in either of the bills are being discussed in conference—citing comparative provisions for mess as typical of the problems of a similar nature in both bills that the subcommittees annually talk over.

He declined to disclose whether the Navy supply bill will recommend reductions in personnel in line with reported cuts in the Army bill. Chairman Joseph W. Byrns, of the Appropriations Committee, has said that while there may be some Army officers retired, he knows of no such program contemplated under the Navy bill.

A cloak of secrecy seems to have been thrown about the Army and Navy bills for none of the other members of the Appropriations Committee will even talk about the measures. While the proceedings of the committee are always behind closed doors and (Please turn to Page 699)

Co. M, 22nd Infantry, Wins Edwin Howard Clark Trophy

COMPANY M, 22nd Infantry, stationed at Ft. Oglethorpe, Ga., has been announced by the War Department as the 1931 winner of the Edwin Howard Clark Machine Gunners' Trophy. In winning this trophy, Company M, 22nd Infantry, amassed the high score of 910.58. In addition to the trophy, a bronze plaque to be permanently retained and a cash award of approximately $300.00 will be given to Company M.

The Edwin Howard Clark Machine Gunners' Trophy is awarded annually to the Infantry machine-gun company which makes the highest average score per man in the regular season's target practice. It was first placed in competition in 1927 and was won that year by Company D, 28th Infantry. In 1928 and 1929 the trophy was won by Company H, 18th Infantry, and in 1930 by Company D, 8th Infantry.

Second place in the competition for this trophy was won by Company H, 9th Infantry, Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., with a score of 874.76, and third place by Company H, 15th Infantry, Tientsin, China, with a score of 872.5. These two companies will receive cash awards of approximately $150.00 and $90.00, respectively. Other high companies in order were:

Co. M, 4th Inf., Ft. Lincoln, N. D. 855.35
Co. M, 23rd Inf., Ft. Sam Houston 855.19
Co. D, 18th Inf., Ft. Hamilton, N. Y. 852.295
Co. H, 23rd Inf., Ft. Sam Houston 851.92
Co. D, 8th Inf., Ft. Sweeny, Ga. 833.46
Co. D, 5th Inf., Ft. Preble, Me. 831.56
Co. D, 23rd Inf., Ft. Sam Houston 831.11

The Edwin Howard Clark Machine Gunners' Trophy was provided by a bequest in the will of the late Capt. Edwin Howard Clark, Inf., USA. Captain Clark was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1917 and served successively with the 18th Infantry, 1st Machine Gun Battalion, and the 2nd Division in France during the World War. He was retired in 1920 for disability in line of duty, and died July 29, 1923.

CHANGES in the Army system of promotion so as to give enlisted men entering the Army for a career a greater opportunity to attain commissioned rank will be sought by Representative John J. McSwain (Democrat), South Carolina, Chairman of the House Military Affairs Committee, he announced March 25.

Suggestions submitted in reply to more than 50 letters sent out to retired Army officers by the South Carolinian Committee Chairman have convinced him steps should be taken to improve the quality of the enlisted ranks, with advancement to commissioned status in view, he said.

"Virtually all of the letters stress that recruiting officers should be interested more in quality than quantity," he said.

"And the weeding out process should not stop there," Mr. McSwain said. "If a man enlists in the Army and does not show improvement he should be kicked out before he is given a chance to desert."

"Retired officers who have written to me are convinced that the Army should be made a select organization of high class men. It could be made so desirable that high school graduates will enlist in order to get training in technical subjects and with a view to promotion in the ranks."

Chairman McSwain is considering introducing a bill to bring about what he considers the necessary adjustment of percentages of officers commissioned from various sources.

"I would have it," he declared, "so that promotion to second lieutenant would be distributed between West Point graduates, enlisted men, honor graduates from select military schools, and from National Guard."

"As it is now, virtually all the second lieutenants are drawn from the Military Academy. I would re-distribute it so that only the upper half, say, of the class would get commissioned. Then they couldn't say that every cadet did not have a chance."

"To those who say that the West Point cadets are being trained for military career, I answer that so are the enlisted men and others I have mentioned. Some of our best officers, I think of General Harbord offhand, have come up from ranks. It should be so that a man could go into the Army with the hope or expectation of rise to the top."

Chairman McSwain said he expected to release a number of the letters in reply to his circular for publication as soon as he can get the consent of the writers.

The letter which Mr. McSwain sent out asking advice from retired officers follows:

"The Army is a vital component of our national defense forces, and I am personally and officially concerned in its efficiency and power to function vigorously and effectively in time of war, but necessarily they will be subject to the instruction and primary leadership of the officers and enlisted men of the Regular Army who are spending a lifetime in being prepared not only to fight themselves, but to train emergency forces to fight."

"In the set-up of the Army as it has existed throughout our history, the honor of being selected to be such defender of the nation is generally appreciated by the officer personnel, but not so generally felt and appreciated by the enlisted personnel. We have, consequently, a disgracefully high percentage of desertions by the enlisted men, an excessively large number of trials by court-martial for military offenses (Please turn to Page 718)

Report of War Policies Commission Endorsed By Majority of Editors

PUBLIC reaction to the report of the War Policies Commission, in the main endorses the recommendations therein, judging from the editorial opinion expressed on the subject. While the report does not seem to have received the attention that its importance demands, comment of the press has generally favored the Commission's action. A few editors attack the Commission for dropping the original proposal for drafting capital in time of war, while others give luke-warm approval to the report for the same reason. The majority, however, declare that the Commission's plan will accomplish the desired results and urge Congress to act immediately upon the recommendations.

SUMMARIZING the report of the War Policies Commission, the Washington Post says "That there may be no doubt concerning the power of Congress to stabilize prices and prevent profiteering in time of war the commission proposes that a constitutional amendment be submitted to the states so that such authority may be clearly defined.

"Until these powers are delegated to Congress the commission proposes that Congress empower the President in time of war to institute a program under which prices may be stabilized at levels to minimize inflation, following a declaration from Congress that such action is necessary. The commission specifically opposes taking the property without compensation, but would provide for commandeering property and compelling acceptance of orders, and taxing to the extent of 95 per cent of all above normal profits.

"In peace times the commission's counsel is for continuous planning by the Government, particularly by the War and Navy Departments, in view of constantly changing national and international conditions, so that in event of war the Nation may be prepared to conduct necessary operations with efficiency and economy. No program of national defense and preparedness could be simpler in the outline of its general principles; the ramifications under this broad statement, naturally, are manifold.

"The first brief and bald demands along this line that started a few years ago called for the 'drafting' of both capital and labor on equitable terms. Capital, it is held, can not be handled in the same manner as individuals, but mere terms must not be taken too literally. The commission, in recommending that Congress be given powers that will enable it to minimize profits and equalize burdens, meets the case in other words. What Americans demand is that never again shall the profiteer at home wax fat while other citizens are at the front. The descriptive phraseology and the method of arriving at this end are immaterial; that it be assured beyond question is all important. * * * The recommendations of the War Policies Commission should be carried out, not in the spirit of preparation for war, but as the surest method of maintaining peace."

ON THE other hand, the Cleveland Press declares, "Last year's hope that modern statesmanship might turn to the most promising of all peace proposals—the elimination of profit from war—has perished with the final report of the Federal War Policies Commission. * * * It was the hope of the men who conceived the plan, for elimination of profits and for confiscation of needed property, that war might occur much less frequently if it were known in advance by the munition makers and their bankers and all the thousands of business men who might be affected that war would mean acute financial suffering for them, instead of profiteering.

"Fortunately there is little prospect that the inadequate unsatisfactory recommendations of the War Policies Commission majority will be acted upon at this session of Congress."

"THE War Policies Commission was an effort—perhaps a rather half-hearted one—to face the deeper implications which the military lessons of the World War left behind them," comments the New York Herald-Tribune. "The opposition of organized labor debarred it from considering the conscription of labor; while a general distrust in the practicability of conscripting (in the sense of confiscating) capital deterred it from any elaborate investigation in that field. Actually it has recommended a constitutional amendment which would empower Congress to fix prices in war, and the preparation of bills which would 'conscript' through taxation, 95 per cent of war profits. This is representative John McDuffie (Democrat), Alabama.

Pay Cut Bill

Herbert D. Brown, director of the Bureau of Efficiency, was brought before the committee at every session, and consulted on savings under the various schedules suggested.

Leaders asserted that with the overwhelming defeat of the sales tax Thursday, there is a greater need for some form of salary retrenchment than at any other time.

Representative Henry T. Rainey, House Democratic whip, said he had little doubt he could muster majority of votes on his side of the House for any bill that might be reported out.

Representative Bertrand Snell, House Republican whip, would not commit himself. He declined to make any predictions as to what his party might be expected to do if and when the pay-cut issue comes to a House vote. The White House likewise has been silent. Early this session a statement was circulated that the President would veto any pay-cut legislation. Later Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), Indiana, quoted the President on the House floor as favoring Federal salary reduction.

Most vigorous House opponents of the step are Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York, and Representative William P. Connery, Jr. (Democrat), of Massachusetts. Both predict that the pay-cut bill will be defeated in the House as decisively as the sales tax.

The new pay cut bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Connally, which contains specific reference to Service personnel, was originally referred to the Committee on Appropriations, but later that committee was discharged and the bill referred to the Committee on Civil Service, which now has it in hand.

Senator Connally's measure would apply reduction percentages as follows:

"(1) Rates in excess of $2,000 but less than $5,000, by 5 per centum; (2) rates of $5,000 but not in excess of $10,000, by 10 per centum; and (3) rates of more than $10,000 by 15 per centum: Provided, That where such compensation rates are fixed by statute the percentages of decrease shall be applied to the salary rates fixed by law and where such salary rates are fixed by administrative action such authority is hereby directed (except where otherwise provided herein) to apply such percentages to the salary rates prevailing when this section becomes effective: Provided, That the application of these reductions shall not operate to reduce the rate of compensation below that of the next lower salary rate in the same service, to which a lower percentage of reduction applies or to which no reduction applies: Provided, That in the commissioned, warrant, and enlisted personnel of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Coast and Geodetic Survey, and Public Health Service, active and retired officers such percentages shall be applicable to the pay rates (inclusive of money allowances) now fixed by or pursuant to law and in determining the total money payment for the purpose of ascertaining the percentage and amount of reduction of persons occupying public quarters or furnished subsistence, the money value thereof as fixed or as paid, but not so furnished shall be included."

a conscription drastic enough to raise formidable administrative difficulties should it ever have to be applied; yet in the light of the actual demands made upon the belligerents in the last war the program seems only a mild and tentative approach to the real difficulties of the problem. How many people today, one wonders, have any clear conception of what another 'resort to war' would actually mean? Such work as that of the War Policies Commission may help to bring home to the public some idea of it."

"THIS is, nevertheless, a problem which the country cannot afford to neglect," states the Philadelphia Public Ledger. "It is no longer a question merely, or even primarily, of preventing war profiteering. It is a matter of making ready to place the entire resources of the nation behind a war effort with a minimum of industrial and financial dislocation.

"And it seems obvious that the far-flung program should be worked out well in advance of an emergency, and kept up to date by frequent revision, in order that it might be applied almost automatically in case of need. Congress should act without delay on these valuable recommendations."

"OUT of experience is born progress," declares the Hutchinson, Kans., News. "The recommendations of the War Policies Commission, composed of Cabinet members and Representatives, to President Hoover, are not all that some of us would have them, but they indicate that some progress has been made.

"* * * the commission did not go all the way, and it flatly opposes any Constitutional Amendment which would permit the taking of private property without compensation in war time.

"It stuck by the old American ideal that private enterprise is preferable to public ownership—even in war time—and ignored any proposals to have the Government take over all industry in war time."

"THIRTEEN years have passed since the World War closed, but the resentment that was aroused by the acts of those who profiteered from the distress of the nation while it was in progress has finally been expressed in a new Constitutional Amendment offered in Congress a few days ago and in a war act that is now being drafted by the War Policies Commission created by Congress in 1930," the Reno Gazette states. "Enactment of the statute, whether the Constitutional Amendment is adopted or not, appears certain. A new generation is coming on since the last war was fought, but the profiteering that disgraced it has not been forgotten and public opinion insists that it shall not be repeated."

"IT IS NOT to be claimed that the prevention of profiteering would prevent war," declares the Tacoma Ledger, "for usually hostilities between nations are provoked by other things, the profiteer merely taking advantage of an opportunity to exploit the government and the people, but to take the profit out of war would mean that the people would be spared excessive living costs at the time and the necessity for making up huge governmental debts in years to come."

"THE Commission, after long study, submits what appears to be a practical plan," is the opinion of the Grand Rapids, Mich., Herald. "Cost-plus contracts, which were made necessary by our unpreparedness during the World War and which contributed to the fortunes of many 'war millionaires,' will be outlawed, if the Commission's plan is adopted.

"Almost as radical as the proposal to recapture 95 per cent of war profits, is the additional provision, recommended by the Commission, that the President be empowered during war to 'institute a program under which prices may be stabilized and thereafter adjusted at such levels as will minimize inflation and will secure to the government the use of any private property needed in the prosecution of the war without affording the owner thereof profit due to the war.'

"These proposals go to the very root of the problem of how to take the profit out of war. With such a program this country would be freed from the suspicion that certain jingo interests and individuals were serving as the agents of Mars in driving us into wars. The subject is one of the most important confronting the present session of Congress."

Navy Class Commissioning

of the smaller classes can be commissioned without exceeding the limit.

This plan seemed to meet with some favor, and the Navy Department was asked to work out estimates of the effect of such a proposal. The illness of Senator Hale, chairman of the committee has delayed further action, but it is believed that some action will be taken within a few days.

Figuring on a basis of the normal yearly attrition rate among line officers and assuming that the experience of past years that about five-sixths of each Naval Academy class are available for commissioning in the line, after staff and Marine Corps appointments have been made and resignations accepted, it is found that separations and graduates seeking commissions in the line only offset the other. This will mean that if all available graduates of succeeding classes are commissioned the actual strength of the line will be in excess of the authorized strength for the next 15 years. Thereafter, available graduates, on the basis of the present number of appointments to the Academy, will not meet the attrition rate and the actual strength will drop below the authorized strength.

If legislation is enacted providing for commissioning only a portion of the graduates of future classes, as suggested to the Senate Committee, it will mean that for a much shorter period the actual strength will exceed the authorized strength and thereafter unless the number of appointments to the Naval Academy is increased there will not be enough graduates each year to keep the Navy up to the present authorized strength.

On the basis of the proposal to commission two-thirds of each class, there would be commissions available for about 275 or 280 this year, about the same number from the classes of 1933 and 1934, a slightly less number for the class of 1935, a much smaller group in 1936 and thereafter vacancies for practically all available graduates. Beginning with the class of 1938, the number available would not be sufficient to keep the Navy up to authorized strength. This will bring about the inefficient (to say the least) situation of discharging expensively trained personnel and then a few years later increasing the number to be trained at the Naval Academy in order to maintain strength. And then if a new building program is started, and an officer personnel increase is provided, classes at the Naval Academy will have to be still further enlarged.

If the two-third plan should be enacted details would be probably worked out by the Navy Department. It is likely that of the probable five-sixths desiring commissions in the line, after Marine Corps and staff appointments had been made and all resignations accepted, commissions would be given to four-fifths of the remainder according to class standing.

Service Appropriations

matters discussed are not given out for publication as a rule, in the present instance there seems to have been a sacred oath of silence exacted of members of the Committee.

Indeed, even Republican members of the subcommittees considering the Army and Navy bills and Democratic members of the House not on the Appropriation Committee have been unable to secure even an inkling of the plans of the leaders. One Republican member of the group declared that not only did he know nothing of the plans for the Army bill, but that he could say nothing if he did, as he had so promised Chairman Byrns.

Whether Mr. Byrns has actually exacted such a promise from all persons having anything to do with the bill is not known, but it is certainly evident that there has been some sort of an understanding reached in the matter, for members involved shy from the subject in conversation like a skittish horse from a bridle.

The reason for the unnatural secrecy is not hard to find. Members feel that if certain of the Democratic Representatives had not been so free in talking of their plans for cutting the Army, the War Department bill could have been reported and steam-rollered through the House weeks ago. They feel that if the cuts had been kept under cover until the bill was brought before the House, national defense advocates would not have had sufficient time to muster strength to defeat the proposed reductions. As it happened, their opponents were forewarned and the Army bill has been held in committee for just this reason, that the committee leaders would have been badly licked if they had forced the issue.

As the matter now stands there will be a battle royal when the committee does bring the Army and Navy bills before the House. Not only will patriotic members be fighting in the proposed cuts, but there will be extremists seeking even more drastic reductions than the Appropriations Committee will agree upon.

Representative William P. Holaday (Republican), Illinois, a member of the House appropriations committee, told the Journal yesterday that he will ask that the 1933 budget estimates for National Defense be trimmed $150,000,000 when the War and Navy supply bills come up for debate in the House.

This suggested reduction is in line with his blanket proposals for curtailing all expenditures $510,000,000 below budget estimates—evoking a 20 per cent cut, twice as drastic as the McKellar resolution applied by the Senate to the Interior Department and State, Justice, Commerce, and Labor supply bills.

In cutting down Army expenditures, Representative Holaday said he would strike first at Citizens Military Training Camps, next at the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, next at lighter-than-air aviation and last at official personnel.

He compared the War and Navy Departments to a fire department "with nothing much to do unless there is a fire," and attacked compulsory R. O. T. C. training at schools and colleges.

"Far from breeding a spirit of militarism," Representative Holaday said, "the system fosters pacifism by forcing college students against their will to take military training for which they have no aptitude.

Lighter than air activities in Army and Navy would be curtailed, if the Illinois Representative had his way. The Akron, he charged, would be "helpless" if a fleet of fast enemy planes were to sight the huge ship.

The bulk of his recommended Naval savings would come from curtailed construction activities, he said. He scouted prospects of the House passing the Vinson bill, for building the Navy up to treaty limits. Then to support his contentions, he cited the old pacifist arguments for reduction in Army-Navy expenditures.

"The average person would be surprised to learn that out of every $100 expended by our Government, $71.88 goes to pay the cost of war, past, present or future," he said. "Twenty-eight and eighty-three one-hundredths per cent of our total cost of government is expended for retirement and interest charges on our war debt. This item is a fixed charge, and cannot be reduced. Twenty-six and seventy one one-hundredths per cent is expended in the payment of pensions, compensation and hospital expenses, and this expenditure cannot be reduced unless our pension laws are repealed and hospital facilities for ex-service men are withdrawn.

"In any attempt to curtail the expenses of our Government we are confronted with the fact that it will be practically impossible to effect any savings in 55.33 per cent of our total expenditure. Sixteen and thirty-five one-hundredths per cent of the total cost is for maintenance of our Army and Navy, and any attempt to affect a saving in this item immediately evokes loud protests from all military organizations."

He said it has been his recent observation that "there are more officers than there is work for them to do."

Of course, there will be members present to point out to the House when Mr. Holaday presents his plan the fallacy of the phrase "cost of past and present war" and that correct label for the interest and pension charges is "cost of unpreparedness," but the outcome of the fight will not be determined at all by persuasive arguments on the floor. It will all depend upon the amount of political pressure exerted back home to influence the leaders in the move.

Public Works Bill

incorporate some of his ideas in the re-draft of the public works bill.

The proposals that the Chief of Army Engineers be placed in charge of the new administration, or that the Army and Navy Construction heads be made ex-officio administrators, has not yet been written into the bill, he said.

It is Representative Whittington's objective to so write the bill that the War Department's strictly military engineering activities would not be embodied in the proposed administration nor naval engineering of a strictly military character.

Rivers and harbors would of necessity be included in the picture, he declared, however. As ex-officio administrator of public works, the Chief of Army Engineers would have all of the authority necessary to guarantee that their work would not be interfered with, he pointed out.

Hundredth Night Show

West Point, N. Y.—In accordance with tradition, on the hundredth night from commencement, members of the Corps of Cadets presented on March 19, the Hundredth Night Show. Taking their theme from the century-old regulation prohibiting cadets from having wives, dogs or mustaches, the Dialectic Society this year presented "The Merry Wives of West Point," a musical comedy in which the regulation was annulled in so far as preventing the first class from getting married.

The plot had to do with the sudden influx of cadets' wives as a result of the annulment of the marriage ban. After hilarious episodes the old rule was invoked again and the wives hurried away from the reservation. After many trials, everything worked out harmoniously in the end, and all the wives and their cadets were united again and remarried in the cadet chapel on graduation day.

There was a matinee performance in the cadet gymnasium and another presentation in the evening. Following the latter there was a first class hop at the West Point Hotel and another hop for members of the second and third classes at Cullum Hall. One of the largest crowds that has ever visited the Academy on "one hundredth night," thronged the reservation during the afternoon and evening.

Air Transport System

THE Middletown, Pa., Air Depot, has inaugurated a "Delivery by Air Service," to serve the three major stations in the Middletown area, viz: Langley, Bolling and Mitchel Fields, with the purposes in view of facilitating the delivery of supplies such as can be handled in a transport plane; creating savings in transportation funds and in time of deliveries; eliminating labor involved in packing and crating of supplies and the materials needed therefor; training personnel in the handling of supplies by transport; increasing the efficiency of pilots in flying fully loaded transports and affording them more cross-country experience and, in general, promoting greater efficiency in the operation of Depot and Station Supply organizations.

A YIC-14 is used as the transport plane. The dispatching of the transport and the assignment of pilots is under the direction of the Operations Officer. The Depot Supply Officer regulates the quantity and nature of the articles transported and loads and unloads the transport at the Depot.

Each station has detailed a crew to load and unload the transport. They have already become familiar with the proper methods in handling supplies and engines. While 1200 pounds is the maximum load to be carried on a trip, 1400 pounds may be carried if conditions warrant. In cases where no return load is available at the station a cargo of supplies is carried, a repairable engine is taken aboard. Station Supply Officers have been instructed so to arrange their shipments as to always have a load of supplies or a repairable engine available for the return trip of the transport.

All the stations are very enthusiastic over the success of this transport service and desires its continuance and enlargement. Parcel post and express shipments to the three stations served have been practically ended. An assured weekly delivery almost entirely eliminated emergency requisitions and should obviate the necessity of voluminous quarterly requisitions.

The first month's operation of this air transport system saved an estimated outlay in funds of $1,101.46.

Maj. J. H. Houghton, Commanding Officer of the Middletown Air Depot, commenting on the operation of the air transport system, states it is entirely practicable for a depot to serve its area by air, providing the proper type of transports are available. He prefers a bigger load-carrying plane, such as a B-2 or a B-3 Bomber to the YIC Transport, because the latter's carrying capacity is limited and, further, because considerable damage is constantly being done to the interior of the cabin, chiefly in the handling of engines.

81st Division Reunion

A REUNION of the 81st (Wildcat) Division will be held in Washington, D. C., June 12, 13 and 14, in celebration of the George Washington Bicentennial. The headquarters of the general committee in charge are at 2012 Portner Place Northwest, Washington, D. C., with St. Sgt. James E. Cahall in charge as general chairman.

Disallow Reduced Fare

ENGINEER officers of the Army, performing non-military duties in connection with rivers and harbors improvement are not "troops" of the United States within the meaning of provisions for the transportation of "troops" at reduced rates on land grant railroads, the Supreme Court of the United States ruled this week.

Reviewing the case of the Southern Pacific Co. vs. the United States, decided against the railroad in the Court of Claims, the Supreme Court held that reduced transportation rates under applicable land grant laws, appropriation acts and land grant equalization acts need not be allowed to personnel performing "non-military duties" such as activities in connection with rivers and harbors improvement and the California Debris Commission.

The opinion, handed down by Justice Roberts, follows in part:

* * * The opinion in that case (U. S. v. Union Pacific R. R. Co., 249 U. S. 354) demonstrates that the word "troops" was intentionally used in contradistinction to the words any persons in the Service of the United States, or their equivalent, and holds that the word "troops" had, at the time of the passage of the land grant acts, and ever since has had, an established meaning, namely, "soldiers collectively—a body of soldiers."

Thus the test is whether the person to be transported is one of such a collective body of soldiers. The reduced rate is applicable to a person so described, although he may not be traveling as part of a detachment or moving body of men. Illinois Central R. R. Co. v. United States, 62 C. Cls. 61; Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Ry. Co., v. United States 58 C. Cls. 33. In the Union Pacific class it was pointed out that although certain persons were properly characterized as members of the Army and as having official relation thereto, they could not, at the time of their transportation, be classified as part of the troops of the United States, as, for example, a furloughed soldier returning to his station, or retired soldiers en route to their homes after retirement.

The narrow question presented for decision is whether engineer officers cease to be members of the military forces or "troops of the United States" when they are assigned to duty in connection with the improvement of rivers and harbors or the work of the California Debris Commission. * * *

Conceding that engineer officers of the United States Army perform a true military function when engaged in work on the military defenses of the United States, and, when so engaged form a part of the Nation's troops, we are of opinion that their activity in connection with rivers and harbors work and the California Debris Commission is nonmilitary in character, and falls within the same category as that of many other employees and officials of the War Department, the nature of whose service excludes them from classification as part of the "troops of the United States." * * *

Ft. Sill Notes

Ft. Sill, Okla.—For the week ending March 19, the Tactics Department, Maj. R. C. Batson, FA, in charge, and the Gunnery Department of the Field Artillery School ran three all-day joint problems illustrating the use of survey operations in the occupation of a position where no maps are available. It is said by officers of the school that this work is of great importance to the U. S. Army because in case of operations on this continent it will probably have to get along without maps for some time.

Maj. S. L. Irwin, FA, held three RSO's with the tractor drawn 155mm howitzers. Only a few practical exercises with the 155mm units can be held during the year because of the cost of gas, etc. In commenting on this point, officers of the department pointed out that although this country leads the world in motor development, nevertheless our Army has little practical experience in the handling of motor drawn units because of the pressing demands for economy. Most of the motor equipment available here is obsolete or obsolescent, it is said.

The advanced class is also working by committee on the preparation of problems, each committee having a certain area of the reservation assigned it is well as a specific type of problem. Under the supervision of Maj. J. F. Barnes, FA, each committee is required to draw up a problem suitable for use here at the school.

In addition to the above several short exercises and conferences were given on the Division Artillery in an attack of a zone (Maj. W. F. Maher, FA), the preparation of schedule fires (Capt. G. D. Wahl, FA), and a map maneuver on the Corps Chief of Artillery and his staff (Maj. John Magruder, FA).

Major Magruder also conducted two map maneuvers for the Battery Officers Class, one on the Battalion Staff and the other on the Regimental Staff, in an attack in preparation of the students to practical exercises later.

Lt. Col. Kenzie Edmunds, Cav., discussed cavalry reconnaissance, counter reconnaissance and defensive combat.

St. Sgt. Harrington Retires

Ft. Sill, Okla.—Expressing the high esteem and admiration of the 1st Field Artillery for St. Sgt. Birt Harrington, Colonel Peek, commanding the regiment, announced the sergeant's retirement in General Orders. Sergeant Harrington entered the Service Aug. 20, 1903, and served 26 years, 6 months and 3 days, with credit of 4 years and 1 month double time.

"The Commanding Officer," the order read, "extends to Staff Sergeant Harrington the best wishes of the entire command for happiness and prosperity in the walk of life he is about to enter. His retirement has been earned by long, faithful and dependable service."

In the Saddle

Ft. Ethan Allen, Vt.—In the presence of a good many spectators from Burlington and the Post, the Ft. Ethan Allen Green team defeated the Yellow, 14 to 8, in a fast polo game at the Post Riding Hall Sunday afternoon, March 12, 1932. On the Green team were Maj. Gordon J. F. Heron, No. 1; Kenneth L. Johnson, No. 2, and Lt. Eric H. F. Svenson, jr., back. On the Yellow team were Lt. Charles Dodge, No. 1; Joris Rasbach, No. 2, and Capt. Randolph Russell, back.

Ft. Benning, Ga.—The Ft. Benning spring polo tournament got under way on the afternoon of Sunday, March 13, when the first two games of the series were played at French Field, between the Artillery and the 29th Infantry, and the Students and the "Freebooters."

In the first game the Artillery defeated the 29th Infantry by the score of 6 to 5, the 29th earning three goals with a handicap of two. The Artillery lineup was as follows: No. 1, Bevan; No. 2, Draper; No. 3, Arnold; No. 4, Bartlett (captain). For the 29th Infantry: No. 1, Lieutenant Sweeney; No. 2, Gould; No. 3, Skelton (captain); No. 4, Westlund.

In the second game the "Freebooters" were the victors, defeating the Students, 10 to 6. The "Freebooter" lineup was: No. 1, Lockett; No. 2, Nichols; No. 3, Blue; No. 4, Thompson (captain). For the Students: No. 1, Wilson; No. 2, Allen (captain); No. 3, Matthews; No. 4, Strickler.

Ft. Snelling, Minn.—Ft. Des Moines' indoor polo team played at Ft. Snelling on March 11 and 13. Their first match against the Twin Cities was easily won, 26½ to 7. The civilian team had been defeated on the preceding Sunday by the Ft. Snelling aggregation in a closely contested game, so that a real battle was anticipated. The outcome, however, was unexpected. The Infantry surprised themselves and everyone else by winning, 18½ to 17½. The Cavalry's splendid teamwork was completely upset in the first half by the offensive tactics of their opponents. In the second half Des Moines improved their defense, but it was too late to overcome the lead piled up against them.

Between halves at each game other versions of the sport, mule polo, using brooms, and potato polo, were demonstrated by men of D and H companies of the 3rd Infantry. The regimental band played between chukkers.

At the final meeting with Des Moines a small memento in the form of a silver tray was presented to each member of the visiting team by Mrs. David L. Stone, on behalf of the Ft. Snelling Officers' Club, and a reception and tea dance was held afterward at the Service Club.

In selecting the line-ups for these games Snelling determined to give all of the new members of the polo squad a chance to play during the series. Accordingly, in the first match with the Twin Cities, three players alternated at the No. 1 position, Lieutenants Orin D. Haugen, Floyd E. Dunn, and George F. Conner. In the final game, Capt. Cyril E. Spicer and Lt. John F. R. Seitz alternated, while Lt. James Fish, III, and Capt. Raymond T. Seymour played 2 and 3 in both games. The line-ups for the other teams were:

Ft. Des Moines—No. 1, Lt. William Campbell; No. 2, Lt. William Nutter; No. 3, Capt. Glen Finley; alternate, Maj. Willard Wadelton.

Twin Cities—No. 1, Mr. John K. Egan; No. 2, Mr. William Osborne; No. 3, Mr. Francis D. Butler; alternate, Mr. Merritt Case.

USMA HAS BOXING CHAMP
Syracuse, N. Y.—Cadet Joseph Remus, of Army, was crowned intercollegiate boxing champion in the 175-pound class in the closing match of the ninth annual intercollegiate championships here March 19. Syracuse University, with two victories in three events, won the meet.

Three Army men fought their way to the finals in the championship, but lost decisions in the closing matches. The Army runner-ups were: Charner Powell, 115-pound class; Charles A. Clark, 155-pound class; John Cleveland, 125-pound class.

The Naval Academy, an important factor in the previous championships, did not enter their team this year.

FT. SILL WINS

Ft. Sill, Okla.—By taking the second deciding game with a 34-30 score, Ft. Sill basketballers won the championship from the titleholders of Ft. Sam Houston after another overtime battle. Both games played here have been tied when the final gun went off but the Artillerymen have in each game forged to the front for the deciding markers in the extra period.

Butler, the local star scorer, was held to nine points by the visitors, who wore the colors of the 23rd Infantry, but was again high man for the evening, while Flood, for the losers, ran up eight markers. This game ended a most successful season at the local post.

NAVY WINS FINAL TWO

Annapolis, Md.—The Naval Academy completed the Winter sports season March 19 with the fencers defeating Columbia University, 9 to 8, and the gymnasts defeating Dartmouth College, 38 to 16.

Columbia lost out in the fencing match, in the final saber bouts, allowing Navy to capture three out of four in this weapon. The visitors captured five of the nine foil bouts and split even in the epee matches.

At gymnastics Navy won all events except tumbling.

FT. BENNING SPORT NOTES

Ft. Benning, Ga.—The Infantry School baseball team will open the 1932 season at Ft. Benning March 28, meeting Michigan State University. Michigan State will be here for a three-game series.

HAS PERFECT SCORE

(Reprinted from the Champaign, Ill., News-Gazette)

St. Sgt. W. F. Klinger, on duty with the Organized Reserves here, is the latest entrant for the hall of fame in sports.

Klinger rolled a perfect game at the Red Apple bowling alleys Friday night. Twelve straight strikes netted him a 300 score.

Like the no-hit game in baseball, the hole in one in golf, a 300 score in bowling represents perfection. It means that 12 times Sergeant Klinger sent the round ball sailing down the maple alleys squarely into the groove to topple all the ten pins.

On the Ranges

Plattsburgh Barracks, N. Y.—The three teams representing the 26th Infantry took first, second and sixth places in the 1st Division Small Bore Rifle competition according to General Orders published by the Divisional Commander on March 16. Four members of the regiment were listed among the first 10 individual high scorers, led by Corp. Charles L. Bailey, Co. I, 26th Infantry, with a score of 378. The exceptionally fine record attained by the local teams may be attributed to intensive daily practice under the supervision of 1st Lt. Daniel H. Hundley, 26th Infantry, who was placed in charge of small bore rifle firing.

Competing units in the Division in the order of standing are listed below:

1, 3rd Bn. 26th Inf.; 2, 2nd Bn. 26th Inf.; 3, 2nd Bn. 28th Inf.; 4, 1st Bn. 16th Inf.; 5, 1st Bn. 18th Inf.; 6, 1st Bn. 26th Inf.; 7, Det. Cos. 1st Engrs.; 8, 2nd Bn. 16th Inf.; 9, Prov. Individual high scores were as follows: Corporal Bailey, 3rd Bn. 26th Inf., 378; Sergeant Oliver, 1st Bn. 16th Inf., 377; Sergeant Nottestad, 3rd Bn. 26th Inf., 375; Corporal Barry, 2nd Bn. 28th Inf., 374; Sergeant Lorette, 1st Engrs., 374; Corporal Jessie, 2nd Bn. 26th Inf., 373; First Lieutenant Linkswiler, 1st Engrs., 372; Sergeant Stinson, 2nd Bn. 26th Inf., 371; First Lieutenant Marsh, Prov. Navy PG Work

THE action of the House Naval Committee in requesting the Secretary of the Navy not to establish a branch postgraduate school away from Annapolis, will affect about 40 officers who were to be given PG instruction next year, it was said this week at the Navy Department.

If arrangements could have been made to send some of the officers to the University of California or elsewhere, it had been intended to give instruction to approximately 140 officers in the first year's class. Limited, however, to a maximum of 163 at the Postgraduate School at the Naval Academy, it will not be possible to give instruction to more than 100 first-year students, and about 40 officers will have to be sent to shore duty elsewhere.

These 40 officers will be given instruction of some character, it is stated, by increasing the number sent to the special schools, e.g. the torpedo school, the submarine school, optical school, diving school, etc., and by assigning them to navy yards, or training stations for instructional purposes.

In future years, there will be a larger number of officers available for postgraduate instruction than next year, and some arrangement will have to be made for training them. It is considered highly desirable for every naval officer to attend the Postgraduate School, and if world conditions quiet down and the rotation plan is instituted, there will be a larger number available for this training than can be handled.

Astrographic Laboratory

THE Bureau of Yards and Docks, Navy Department, will open bids in the near future for a new Astrographic Laboratory for the Naval Observatory, Washington, D. C. The construction of this building will provide the Observatory with additional modern laboratory facilities, which are urgently needed, and which will be of great assistance in connection with the Observatory's researches in the field of star photography.

The new building will be a two-story structure, 37 feet by 60 feet, and will contain three laboratories, two offices, and a lecture room. Three photographic dark rooms will be provided, with air conditioning, heating and refrigerating equipment for maintaining these rooms at constant temperature Summer and Winter. The building will be of reinforced concrete construction with limestone facing. Architecturally the building promises to be one of the most attractive at the Naval Observatory.

The project has been advertised by the Bureau of Yards and Docks and bids will probably be opened early in April.

"Old Ironsides" Tour

VISITS to two additional ports in Florida have been arranged for the USS Constitution, now en route to Washington, D. C., after a tour of Gulf ports. The famous frigate will visit Port St. Joe from March 30 to April 1, and St. Petersburg from April 7 to April 9, sailing on the latter date for Washington, D. C. The Constitution will arrive at the National's Capital about April 18, and will remain there during the Bicentennial.

The Constitution arrived at Gulfport, Miss., March 24, her fortieth port of call since her cruise started in July, 1931. Department records for 37 ports visited show a total of 1,798,031 visitors have boarded the Constitution.

Ask Power to Seize Vessels

LEGISLATION permitting the seizure of any merchant vessel registered, enrolled or licensed under the laws of the United States during a national emergency or when in the President's opinion a national emergency is imminent was recommended to Congress this week by the Navy Department.

"The plans for national defense that have been prepared in the Navy Department require for use of the Navy about 1,000 sea-going merchant vessels," Secretary Adams said in a letter to the House.

"In order to carry out these plans," he explained, "it will be absolutely essential that a certain number of these vessels arrive at designated bases on the date the President proclaims the existence of a national emergency, and that a certain number arrive at other designated bases within given times after this presidential proclamation. The vessels needed are arranged in 44 conversion types of classifications to meet the Navy's immediate needs."

He said that of vessels in reserve under the supervision of the Shipping Board, 60 are in first reserve and could probably be made ready for service within from one to three weeks; 99 are in second reserve, and could be made ready within from two to six weeks and 75 more in "surplus," now ready for scrapping, could, if need arose, be made ready in from three to eight weeks. At present steps are being taken to transfer 50 of the vessels now in the second reserve to surplus.

As a certain number of vessels must arrive at points designated at a date on which a national emergency is proclaimed by the President, he said, it is evident that such vessels must be taken over by the Navy a sufficient time in advance to permit their arrival according to plans and that the Navy must have a larger field to choose from in order to get the type of ships essential for its use.

Commended for Rescue

LETTERS of commendation for "commendable conduct in assisting in the rescue of four people from drowning" in an accident aboard the USS Richmond, light cruiser, at the Navy Yard, Washington, D. C., on Oct. 27, 1931, have been forwarded by the Secretary of the Navy to Marshal G. Couch, electrician's mate 3rd cl.; Peter Boondry, seaman 1st cl.; Robert W. Harvey, seaman 2nd cl., and Franklin V. Perkins, seaman 2nd cl.

The accident on board the Richmond occurred while the ship was receiving visitors on Navy Day, 1931. The forward brow from the ship to the shore cracked and the brow sagged about the middle point, carrying away the after handrail, thereby causing two children, an elderly lady and a man to fall into the river. The men commanded by the Secretary, with others attached to the cruiser, immediately jumped into the water and effected the rescue.

New Communication Projects

A NUMBER of important communication projects developed by the Signal Corps are now undergoing service test by various using arms with a view toward adoption.

Under revised Army Regulations the Service tests are performed by the boards of the prospective using arms to ascertain whether or not: (a) the equipment is designed and submitted for service test fulfills the requirements of its military characteristics as set up before development is begun; (b) recommendations of the board, as modified by comments of the chiefs of the respective using arms, require changes in the design; and (c) the equipment is satisfactory to the using arms.

Among the most interesting of the new developments are the new tank radio sets, types SCR-189 and SCR-190, the latter being a receiver only. They are now undergoing service tests by tactical organizations at Ft. George G. Meade, Md., and in the near future additional models will be sent to the Infantry Board for test by tank organizations at Ft. Benning, Ga. Preliminary reports indicate that this set will prove satisfactory for the purpose for which it was designed, i. e., a short-range telephone set for use as a command set in tank platoons and companies.

Two distinct types of aircraft command sets are now being service tested with a view to permitting the Air Corps to decide which of the two types will be most satisfactory as a command set in pursuit aircraft. These are high-frequency sets, each using a small fixed antenna and so designed to avoid, as far as possible, any change in frequency settings due to radical changes in temperature caused by the operation of the plane at greatly differing altitudes.

Another project undergoing service tests is a telegraph set, the present nomenclature of which is type TG-5-T1. This is an open-circuit field telegraph instrument designed for operation on field lines—either metallic, grounded single wire, or simplex circuits. The development of this set is the result of an effort to provide a suitable replacement for the telegraph set, type EE-76. The buzzer, however, differs from the EE-76 in that the repeating coil forms an integral part of the EE-76 set is omitted in the new set. The new set operates on the open-circuit principle and an audible signal is obtained by the use of a microphone howler and head receivers rather than with a Morse sounder, with which the old set is equipped. This feature permits the use of radio operators in lieu of Morse telegraph operators, which is considered highly desirable. The dimensions of the TG-5-T1 are 3 1/2 by 4 1/2 by 6 1/2 inches and its weight, including its power supply (dry batteries), is approximately 5 pounds. Preliminary reports of the service tests indicate that the telegraph set type TG-5-T1 not only is a great improvement over the telegraph set, type EE-76, but that it has characteristics which suggest its possibility as a replacement for the buzzer-phone type EE-1-A and the service buzzer, type EE-63.

A message-center carrying case has been developed as a result of an effort to provide a case suitable for carrying all of the equipment and supplies necessary for the operation of message centers in a regiment or smaller unit. It is made of waterproof canvas and is provided with a strap for carrying the case over the shoulder. It contains a compartment for carrying a folded map which has a "window" so that the map can be studied without removing it from the compartment. The case also contains a clip board for use in writing messages, and pockets are provided for holding messages, pencils, a cipher device, type M-94 and other miscellaneous material.

A sectional wire pike has been designed to permit the packing of a pike on a pack animal and to solve other transportation difficulties. The present wire pike, type MG-1, is too long to pack, and a sectional joint has been inserted, making it much easier to transport. The sectional joint includes a locking device designed by the Signal Corps laboratories at Ft. Monmouth which is novel and appears to be entirely practicable.

"So far from being in any way a provocation to war, an adequate and highly trained Navy is the best guaranty against war, the cheapest and most effective peace insurance."—THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

FURTHER PENALIZATION of the Armed Services in the matter of pay is threatened by Congress. The country is aware of the fact that while all civil branches of the Government prior to the depression received large increases in salaries, the advances granted to the Army and Navy and Marine Corps were negligible. Now it is planned to apply a percentage cut to all employees, the effect of which will be to assure the retention by civilians of a substantial part of the increase they receive and at the same time to reduce Service pay below that fixed by the law enacted in 1908. In other words, not only will the unfair treatment suffered by the Services in times of rising prices be perpetuated, but a further injustice will be imposed. The reduction in living costs has helped the Army and the Navy and given them a better opportunity to meet their expenses; but the schedules of pay continue inadequate and bear heavily especially upon the younger officers. It is to be hoped Congress will consider what has happened in the past as well as what is happening at present, and will at least exclude the Services from a pay cut. Any other policy would be inimical to the interests of the country.

THERE IS ANOTHER ASPECT of the Congressional attitude which is causing serious concern to the millions of voters throughout the country who believe in adequate National Defense. The Senate has adopted the policy of cutting appropriations by 10 per cent below those authorized by the House of Representatives. It is to be assumed that that body intends to apply the same policy to the Army and Navy Appropriation bills. We urge the Senate, as well as the House Appropriations Committee, to consider that President Hoover squeezed every unnecessary dollar out of the Army and Navy estimates, and the budget, as finally approved, presented the irreducible minimums for the maintenance, not of adequate National Defense but of the skeleton upon which that defense could be built. The Collins and Ayres sub-committees in charge of the Service bills have been holding joint meetings, and have been seeking to eliminate duplications as well as to agree upon cuts in like items. The Army bill is ready. The Navy bill shortly will be ready. These two measures are to be brought in one after the other, so that the House will get the entire picture of defense. There is no objection, of course, to such a policy, but what is objected to is that the bills are to be brought in just before adjournment, when members are anxious to get back home to attend to their political fences, and that consideration which the importance of the subject demands cannot be given. It is apprehended the Service Appropriation bills will be cut in the House and if the Senate reduces by 10 per cent the amounts authorized by the Lower Chamber, National Defense will suffer to an extent that will make it unable properly to protect the Nation and the Nation's interests. Now is the time for all defense advocates to tell their Senators and members that this vital need of the country shall not be made a victim of football politics.

THE MOVEMENT TO REDUCE the commissioned personnel of the Army is by no means dead. There is talk at the Capitol of eliminating 500 officers instead of the thousand originally planned. Our inquiry establishes, however, that the leaders still favor the Collins proposal to incorporate a provision in the House bill to retire two thousand, this provision to be rejected by the Senate, and in the Conference, which finally will draft the Act, to agree upon a drop of 1,000. Fortunately, the sentiment of the House is against any such action. A revolt against control of the House by Speaker Garner was successfully staged on the sales tax. This was a blow to the organization, and weakens its prestige and ability to push through the Chamber other features of its program. There is reason to believe the same spirit of revolt will manifest itself when consideration is being given to the proposal to reduce the number of officers. In this case, the House will go on record in favor of the present commissioned strength. Should it do so, members who are candidates for re-election will escape the disapproval of voters who, in view of the Far Eastern situation, are greatly concerned that a sufficient force of trained officers be on hand to guide and develop National Defense. So far as the Navy commissioned personnel is concerned, the understanding is that it will not be disturbed. The plan to cut it received practically no support, and was abandoned.

EVERY NATION IN THE WORLD keeps a strangle hold upon its communications. All, including the United States, go so far by law to exclude aliens from holding positions as administrators or directors in companies of this class. The importance of such a policy is apparent, for should war break out an alien officer would be able to furnish to his own country, should it be involved, or an enemy state, information relating to patents, plans, etc., which would be of inestimable hostile value. In view of these plain facts, it is astounding that the Senate Commerce Committee should report favorably a bill authorizing 20 per cent alien representation upon American companies. This is in the interest of a foreign corporation, which is the competitor of the Radio Corporation of America. When it is recalled that the Radio Corporation was organized largely at the instance of President Wilson because of his realization of the necessity of American control of the American communications field, when Congress passed a law forbidding alien representation upon any American communications company, it becomes a matter of serious concern for a proposal, such as the Commerce Committee has reported, to be urged upon the Senate and House as worthy of passage. The Senate, as well as the House, should not be led astray by hostility to an alleged monopoly to destroy a policy of first importance to American interest and American defense.

Two Supreme Loyalties

THESE are two supreme loyalties in life: Loyalty to God and loyalty to our land. These are first and foremost. All others, dear as they are, are secondary and subservient. Love is the keynote of loyalty. Patriotism is the keynote of both: Love of country, loyalty to a cause. Patriotism for the Patria—for the fatherland and God.

In these days of cynicism, of materialism and radicalism, it is becoming too much the fashion to sneer at finer feelings and sentiments, and ban them or damn them, as pious platitudes and snivelling sentimentalities. Love of country was called, not many months ago, by a minister from a New York pulpit: "Damnable National Patriotism." Yet, for this cause, a man will leave father and mother, wife and children, and give himself to death that his country may live. Yet, for this cause, wives and mothers will willingly send their husbands and sons to battle for their country's cause, for the preservation of national integrity, the safety of their homes, their honor and their righteous ideals. Thus do they prove that "national patriotism" is not "damnable" but the highest, holiest love—next to the love of God—within the human heart.

New Flying Field at Ft. Shafter—Considerable headway has been made in connection with the establishment of the new flying field at Ft. Shafter, Honolulu, T. H. Under the direction of Air Corps personnel, a portion of the golf course is being leveled for use by the airplanes. Certain high spots are being graded down and some of the low places filled.

The plan is to make the field suitable for the landing of ambulance planes from distant points with patients for Tripler General Hospital and for courier planes carrying messages to Department Headquarters. Coincident with the announcement of this plan, stretchers for use in bombing planes have been developed. The stretchers, which are of the light wire mesh type, can be attached to hooks in the bomb bay of a plane in about two minutes, tests have revealed. These will insure a convenient method of caring for any person being rushed to the hospital after an injury. Since the new airplane stretchers have been well devised, all bombing planes have become ambulance planes as well. Landing of patients will be possible for any post on the Island within two hours, should an injury occur. The landing field lies just north of the Department Headquarters building and will be only 200 or 300 yards from the hospital.

It has long been planned to develop a field near Department Headquarters which would make it possible to supplement other forms of communication with the airplane. The field is due to be tested very shortly.

Health of Troops—The Monthly Review of the Health of the Army for the four weeks ended Feb. 27, issued from the office of the Surgeon General of the Army, shows that the rise in the admission rate from respiratory diseases, which had started in January, continued during this period. As a result, the annual admission rate per 1,000 from all causes for the troops in the United States increased to 805 from 666 in January. This rate, however, was lower than the one in February 1931, (994), when there was a similar outbreak of respiratory diseases in the United States, fortunately associated with a very low fatality rate. The 1932 February rate was also lower than the seasonal average for the month (818), but appreciably higher than the one during this month in 1930.

Of the month's increase of 139 in the general admission rate, 133 were due to the greater number of cases of disease. The admission rate from them was 685 as compared with 552 in January. In February, 1931, it was 879 and the five-year average for the month was 709. There was a slight increase in the relative number of cases of injuries, the rate being 120 as compared with 113 in January.

As noted above the respiratory diseases continued to increase during this period, and the number per 1,000 was 345 as compared with 237 in January. The increase of 108 accounted for a very large part of the total increase in the disease rate (133).

There was an increase in the prevalence of respiratory diseases in every Corps Area in the United States, the greatest ones being in the First, Second and Fifth. The second highest rate was in the Seventh, but the increase there was relatively slight due to the fact that the one in January had been unusually high. Only the Second Corps Area had a higher rate in February, 1932, than in February, 1931.

Asiatic Vessels Ordered to U. S.—In accordance with proposed changes in assignments of ships of the U. S. Asiatic Fleet announced November 12, 1931, the Navy Department has issued orders directing the following movement of vessels from Asiatic waters:

Destroyer Division 17, consisting of the USS Tracy, Borie, MacLeish, Simpson, McCormick, Truxtun, will depart from Manila on April 18 and will proceed to the Navy Yard, Mare Island, Calif., where the ships will be placed in the "reserve pool" of the Battle Force, to be rotated in service with destroyers on the Pacific Coast.

Submarine Division 9, consisting of the USS S-30 to 35, inclusive, and the USS Beaver, submarine tender, will depart from Manila on May 2nd, and will proceed to Pearl Harbor, T. H., where the submarines will be placed in reserve commission, and the Beaver will act as tender for submarines based there.

USS Jason, collier acting as aircraft tender, will depart from Manila on April 2 and will proceed to the Navy Yard, Puget Sound, where she will be decommissioned. The USS Langley, aircraft carrier, is to proceed to the Asiatic station to replace the Jason.

USS Chaumont, transport, which has been at Shanghai, will depart from Manila on March 30, for the Pacific Coast, arriving at San Francisco about April 22.

The scheduled movements listed above have been held in abeyance during the past two months because of the troubled conditions around Shanghai. With the cessation of hostilities, the Administration decided to make the planned withdrawals. As only the Langley, the old cruiser Rochester and two gunboats are going out to the Asiatic as replacements, what would happen in the case of a second "incident" like the one of a month ago is conjecturable.

Certificates of Capacity—With reference to Paragraph 40d, AR 140-5, "Graduates of the United States Military or Naval Academy, Air Corps Training Center, or senior units of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps," are not required to have 15 days' active duty training in order to receive a certificate of capacity. So much of the last sentence of paragraph 40d, AR 140-5, as reads "but they will be required to have attended at least 14 days of active duty training, except when excused as prescribed in paragraph 32a (4)," refers to promotion. The Department believes the meaning of this part of paragraph 40d would be clearer if it read "but, for promotion, they will be required to have attended at least 14 days of active duty, etc."

When the next changes to AR 140-5 are issued, the confusion regarding active duty training contained in paragraph 40d will be eliminated by rescinding the part of the paragraph reading "but they will be required to have attended at least 14 days of active duty training except when excused as prescribed in paragraph 32a (4)" as the requirements on this matter fully covered in paragraph 32a (4).

Fleet Problem XIII Concluded—Adm. F. H. Schofield, USN, Commander-in-Chief, United States Fleet, who served as Chief Umpire of Fleet Problem XIII, reports to the Navy Department that at the close of the Problem on March 18, the "Blue" fleet, under command of Admiral Richard H. Leigh, USN, was steaming toward Magdalena Bay, that the "Black" fleet, under command of Vice Adm. A. L. Willard, USN, was defending the approaches to San Francisco, and that there was no possibility within 36 hours of the "Black" defending forces intercepting the "Blue" attacking fleet in its mission of seizing a foot hold on the Pacific Coast.

Admiral Schofield reports that Fleet Problem XIII had been invaluable to all commanders and personnel participating, in that the problem required lengthy cruising under war conditions, with constant exercise in scouting, tracking and attack.

All forces involved in Fleet Problem XIII were scheduled to arrive in the San Pedro-San Diego area by March 22.

Decoration of Graves

THE Chaplain at Ft. Myer, Va., has tendered his services, without remuneration, to the personnel of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard to decorate the graves of such of their deceased relatives and friends as are interred in Arlington National Cemetery, for Memorial Day, May 30, 1932.

It is believed that undoubtedly many officers and enlisted men, and their families, will desire to avail themselves of this opportunity to have the graves of their loved ones cared for on this occasion.

The plan is to provide a standard floral emblem in the form of wreath 22 inches in diameter carrying a large bunch of flowers for the sum of $2.00. This form of decoration has been used in previous years to the complete satisfaction of all. To facilitate the handling of funds and the ordering of floral pieces it is desired that the standard emblem be used so far as it will be acceptable. However, if some wish to spend larger sums on flowers, special floral emblems of proportionately larger size and value will be purchased. Such decorations as are sent direct to the Chaplain, or which are delivered to him by florists, will be placed upon the designated graves as soon as received.

All correspondence and remittances pertaining to the decoration of graves should be addressed to:

The Chaplain,
Ft. Myer, Va.

and should be in his hands by May 24, 1932. Requests should indicate the name, rank and organization of the deceased and if possible the grave or lot number with section in which the deceased is buried.

GREAT LAKES, ILL.

March 22, 1932

MRS. WALTER S. CROSLEY, wife of the Commandant of the Ninth Naval District, has returned to Great Lakes after an absence of more than six weeks.

Mrs. Crosley, accompanied by Rear Admiral Crosley's cousin, Mrs. Edmund Burke Ball, of Muncie, Ind., sailed from New York Feb. 2, for Havana and Vera Cruz.

They spent a week in Mexico City and then visited the interesting ruins of Yucatan.

They next went to San Salvador, Panama, Jamaica and Miami, Fla. The trip from Mexico to Miami was made entirely by the Pan American Airways System, the only means by which some of the mountains and valleys of Central America can be observed and enjoyed.

One of the most attractive bridge-lunches of early Spring was held at the Deerpath Inn, Lake Forest, Ill., March 17, where 46 ladies of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Thomas M. Schnotala, wife of Lt. Comdr. Thomas M. Schnotala (SC), USN, and Mrs. Francis D. Humphrey, wife of Lt. Francis D. Humphrey (SC), USN.

Paul Claudel, Ambassador of France, was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the French and Franco-American Societies of Chicago, at the Palmer House in that city, on Friday evening, March 18.

Ambassador Claudel was the principal speaker of the evening. Referring to the "eternal question of debts and reparations," he said that it would be much nearer a solution were it discussed in a spirit of business and hard fact rather than in a spirit of abstract right.

He expressed his astonishment that "people who like so much to speak about disarmament are the same who speak so lightly about the necessity of changing frontiers." "It is," he said, "as if nations were told: 'Please put down your arms and then we will carve a new and beautiful Europe out of your own flesh and bones.'

"If people want real disarmament, the first sensible thing to do should be to stop that vague talk about revision of treaties, which is contrary to every feeling of security," he continued.

He predicted that in the near future a close and sincere friendship between America and France will be cemented.

"Nobody cares for a weak friend," he said. "A weak France will not make Europe and America stronger; a destitute France will not make them richer; an unarmed France will not make the world more secure."

Several hundred guests attended the dinner, which included many distinguished Chicagoans and others. The Army and Navy were represented by Rear Adm. Walter S. Crosley, USN, and Mrs. Crosley, and Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, USA, and Mrs. Parker.

FT. DUPONT, DEL.

March 22, 1932

THE first four days of this week were busy ones for the 1st Engineers, in its move to Camp Dix, N. J., for Summer training. Truck convoys moved battalion messes and equipment to Camp Dix on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. The wagon train and mounted detachment left the post on Tuesday. The remainder of the regiment, including regimental headquarters, left for Camp Dix on Thursday, March 17. Only a caretaking detachment of the 1st Engineers remains at Ft. DuPont to carry on the necessary guard, police and maintenance work.

Due to the number of ties between competing teams, it was not possible to have the play-off between Headquarters and Service Company, 1st Engineers, and Company A, in the second basketball tournament, before the departure of the regiment for Camp Dix. The two teams played off the tie for the post championship, therefore, at the Mt. Holly Armory, N. J., on the evening of March 18. Mt. Holly is only a few miles from Camp Dix. Headquarters and Service Company won the championship with a score of 23 to 17.

Ft. Benning Notes

THE Infantry School library, comprising approximately 23,000 volumes on military and allied subjects, has been augmented by the acquisition of approximately 150 new books and pamphlets during the month of February, according to the monthly bulletin issued by the library committee. The Ft. Benning school library is graded as one of the most extensive military libraries in the Service.

A definition of the term "burst" in connection with machine-gun marksmanship has been issued by the Secretary of War and is termed "a series of shots fired by one pressure on the trigger mechanism." This method of fire is stipulated as the only one which will be employed in firing exercises for machine-gun marksmanship courses. The definition is intended to suppress undue deliberation in the delivery of machine-gun fire which occasionally becomes evident during marksmanship practice.

Maj. Frank V. Schneider, recently on duty with the organized reserves at Albany, reported at Headquarters the Infantry School on Wednesday for duty with the 29th Infantry.

Chairman McSwain's Plan

fenses and consequent dishonorable discharge.

It occurs to me that some way ought to be found to induce young men of natural ability and of fair education to enlist in the Army with the intention and purpose of making it a life vocation, and, of course, sufficient prospects of promotion and financial reward must be offered.

Surely out of one hundred twenty-five million people there can be found one hundred twenty-five thousand men who would be glad to take the Army seriously and as a life business just as firemen in municipalities and policemen in municipalities accept their duties most creditably to themselves and satisfactorily to their communities. In fact, the service of a fireman is a constant challenge to the heroic in him, and he must answer to that challenge at any hour of any day of any season of the year. The casualties among firemen and policemen are as high on a percentage basis as ordinary war-time casualties.

I hope I have made myself sufficiently clear to direct your attention and to set your mind to thinking along fully, and then to write me fully and this line. I hope you will take sufficient time to consider it very carefully your views. If you should wish your views to be kept confidential, I will do so. I am prompted solely by the desire to promote national defense by realizing that the efficiency of our fighting forces must depend upon efficiency in every part thereof. I trust, therefore, that you may give me your views after you have taken such time for reflection and writing of your views as you deem necessary.

Personal Publicity

THE U. S. Army Information Service, New York City, is issuing the following memorandum to Army personnel:

"1. Army officers who become the subject of newspaper stories as an incident to their promotion, retirement, assignment to a new post, or other official development are engaging the attention of those dubious publications with high sounding titles but zero circulation which for many years have been deriving an extravagant income from commercially astute but journalistically ignorant civilians.

"2. Most of the inquires an officer receives from representatives of newspapers, magazines, news syndicates and photographic agencies are legitimate requests from trustworthy workers in a field where ethics are on an equal plane with those of the military or any other honorable profession.

"3. The Army Information Service, however, having recently noted an increase of activity directed at Army officers by promoters of questionable magazines and having succeeded in preventing financial loss, desires to issue a warning against racketeer publications and to offer its facilities to Army personnel to verify the standing of any agency in the newspaper or magazine field that may request Army cooperation.

"4. Not all who seek an interview or request biographical material or suggest the taking of a more effective photograph are moved primarily by the desire to give the material wide dissemination through the medium of a generally circulated publication. An interesting example of this is the puff magazine.

"A telephone call gives the prospect his first hint of the existence of the puff magazine.

"This is Ted Bland, news editor of the puff, a crisp voice announces, mentioning a title of such obviously solid respectability that the other hesitates to confess he never heard of it.

"One of the boys in the office has just written such a fine story on your career that I want you to hear it before we print it. It says puff."

"Then after suggesting a modification or two in the highly laudatory article, the prospect is reminded that if he is not a regular subscriber to the magazine it might be advisable to reserve a lot of, say, 50 copies for distribution among friends. Often the prospect is most anxious not to miss the issue. A messenger is sent at once to his office with a contract blank.

"All stories on prospects who decline to sign go into the waste basket.

"When the magazine is published it consists exclusively of stories on individuals who have contracted to buy substantial numbers of copies. This sale of copies to subjects written up in the magazine's only circulation.

"A variation of the same scheme is the solicitation of biographical material to be included in an impressively bound volume carrying an equally impressive name. Obscure persons or those who may find it advantageous commercially, politically, or socially to appear in print are anxious to furnish the information requested and readily agree to purchase one or more copies. As in the case of the puff magazine, biographies of those who do not sign a contract to buy are never published, regardless of their merit or standing.

"5. It is desired to remind Army personnel that the Army Information Service is the War Department's agency in New York City for contact with the press. Its facilities, of course, are available at any time to all who may have occasion to release information for publication in any form."

Mark Training Sites

CHAIRMAN McSWAIN, of the House Military Committee, has introduced a bill providing that the Secretary of War shall erect on the site of each camp and cantonment maintained as a training ground or mobilization center in the World War, a monument to the memory of the men of the organizations trained there; and a suitable inscription denoting the name of the organization or organizations, respectively, which was trained at that particular camp or cantonment, as well as the engagements it or they participated in, shall be inscribed thereon.

Financial Digest

ALTHOUGH the reports of a difference of opinion as to how far the Reconstruction Finance Corporation could go in the matter of advancing loans to the railroads were denied, evidently there must have been some question on the degree of coordination between the Government and railway agencies, says a morning stock letter of E. A. Pierce & Co. Uneasiness over this undoubtedly was responsible for much of the selling in railway bonds and stocks during the middle of last week. President Hoover's statement on Saturday should have a reassuring effect. He declared that financial problems confronting the railroads are of smaller dimensions than has been generally believed and added that the coordination of programs and policies has been arrived at by the Government and the railway agencies.

From another angle, Washington news is not so reassuring. The stock market has appeared to ignore tax proposals, financial sentiment evidently having been encouraged by the evidence of cooperation in Congress, at the same time realizing that of necessity there would be a substantial increase in the tax burden. Consequently, the news of a bitter fight in the House and the threatened disruption of a carefully conceived plan, with no logical program as a substitute, is unsettling. It would now appear as if the market will pay more attention to the progress of the tax bill than it has. As it stands, the tax situation in Congress is hardly encouraging, not necessarily because of increase in income surtaxes, but because general business, not knowing in what form the tax bill will finally be passed, is quite powerless to anticipate and to formulate programs.

Practical Pacifists

THE Army and Navy Journal's contest for the best definition of the term "Practical Pacifists" is drawing to a close (all contributions must be in by April 1, 1932), nevertheless there is still time to get entries in before the closing date.

Remember the conditions: Closing date, April 1, 1932; length: not more than 50 words; prize, a one year's subscription to the Journal or an extension of your present subscription.

Following are a few of those received this week:

"A 'Practical Pacifist' is an Utopian idealist purposely ignorant of laws governing the rise and fall of nations, who apparently believes mankind and life survive through sentiment and not by strife. He ignores reason and delights in gainful mass exploitation (peace societies) of receptive minds, by insidious propaganda, based on aspirations, not on axioms."

M. B. Hughes.

"There ain't no such animal—no pacifist is practical."

Mrs. H. C. Browne,

Ft. Douglas, Utah.

"A 'Practical Pacifist' is a cowardly skunk who turns his back on his duty and switches his tail in defiance."

West Point Dinners

IN 35 gatherings held in all corners of the United States and at Army posts on foreign stations, graduates of West Point on Saturday, March 19, observed the 130th anniversary of the founding of the United States Military Academy.

The two largest meetings were in Washington, D. C., and in New York City, where the officers on duty at nearby posts and from the Academy itself gather in honor of their Alma Mater.

The Washington dinner was held in the Willard Hotel with Maj. Gen. Guy V. Henry, Chief of Cavalry, as toastmaster. Many distinguished guests sat at the head table, including General John J. Pershing, retired General of the Armies, and General Douglas MacArthur, Chief of Staff. Approximately 400 graduates of the Academy were present ranging from Gen. Samuel E. Tillman, of the class of '69, to two cadets of the class of 1934, who were on sick leave.

The speaker at the Washington dinner was Maj. Gen. Charles H. Martin, class of '87, now on the retired list but serving his country as United States Representative from Oregon. Col. Bernard Lentz, Inf., as chairman of the entertainment committee, arranged a program reminiscent of the Old Cadet Days that met with high favor. Col. Horace Hickam, AC, had charge of the table arrangements.

Maj. Gen. Robert E. Callan was elected chairman of the local board; while Lt. Col. John B. Richardson, AGD, was selected as secretary, and Maj. William A. Beach, AGD, as treasurer.

California

The Association of Graduates, U. S. M. A., Southern California Sector (less San Diego and vicinity), held its annual dinner, March 19, at the University Club, Los Angeles, Calif., at 7 p. m. There were 57 present.

Col. George F. Hamilton, Class of 1894, acted as toastmaster. The program began with a toast to the Corps. Maj. Carl Spatz, class of 1914, world famous aviator, responded to the toast in a brief talk. Gen. James J. Hornbrook, class of 1890, gave an interesting talk on Old West Point, its history, early struggles and traditions. 1st Lt. Charles J. Barrett, Jr., class of 1922, spoke of the modern West Point and how the Academy had taken rapid strides in the past years in modernizing its educational system. 2nd Lt. James E. Briggs, class of 1928, gave a short talk on West Point and its athletics.

The most interesting feature of the entertainment program was the showing of four reels of motion pictures, called "Cadet Days," picturing the four years of a cadet's life.

The arrangements of the banquet were in the hands of the officers of the association: Col. George F. Hamilton, class of 1894, president, and Lt. Col. Charles L. Wyman, class of 1907, secretary and treasurer.

The oldest class represented was 1870 and its graduate was Lt. Col. Otto L. Hein, USA-ret.; the youngest class was 1930. This class had 11 representatives in this sector, nine in the Air Corps at March Field, one at Ft. MacArthur and one retired. The occasion was conspicuous for its many distinguished personages present. Among those were Major Generals Lansing H. Beach, class of 1882, and Charles S. Farnsworth, class of 1887.

The program was concluded with election of officers. The new officers are: President, Lt. Col. Otto L. Hein, USA-ret., class of 1870; vice president, Col. Halsey E. Yates, Inf., USA, class of 1899; secretary and treasurer, Maj. William R. Wilson, USA-ret., class of 1916.

Ft. Sill, Okla.

One hundred and twenty-five graduates and former cadets of the United States Military Academy gathered at the Midland Hotel, Lawton, Okla., Friday, March 18, for the largest annual West Point dinner staged here in many years. There were representatives of classes from 1893 to 1930 with the class of 1925 holding the banner with an attendance of 15. Brig. Gen. William M. Cruikshank, commandant of the Field Artillery School, class of 1893, was the oldest grad at the dinner with 2nd Lt. Ethan M. Hampton, 38th Inf., class of 1930, the youngest West Point grad.

Lt. Col. Ralph Talbot, Jr., 18th FA, class of 1905, acted as toastmaster as well as chairman of the committee on arrangements. He called on Lt. Col. Leslie J. McNair, class of 1904, assistant commandant of the Field Artillery

School, to introduce General Cruikshank, who was the speaker of the evening on the subject "West Point in the 90's." During the dinner various "skin lists," fake telegrams, etc., were read by the toastmaster and the songs of cadet days were sung with the music furnished by the 1st Field Artillery Band. The banquet was concluded in traditional manner by singing "Army Blue."

George Wright. Many on the retired list in Washington and Idaho were also invited and those on DOL in the two States were asked to attend.

The 13 graduates assembled had as their guests three Naval Academy graduates, and one officer of the Medical Corps, USA, who was on duty at West Point for seven years.

The decorations of the dining hall carried out the black gold and grey motif. The table centerpiece contained yellow roses, blue-grey sweet peas, and pussywillows, and was flanked by candelabra holding black, gold, and grey candles. The Seventh Field Artillery orchestra played appropriate music during the dinner.

Those who attended the dinner were: Adm. Henry T. Mayo, Col. Joseph F. Barnes, Col. Charles Burnett, Col. Robert P. Harbold, Col. Daniel P. Card, Col. Frederick F. Black, Maj. Alfred J. Betcher, Maj. Don't remove the moisture-proof wrapping from your package of Camels after you open it. The Camel Humidor Pack is protection against sweat, dust and germs. At sea or ashore, in dry artificial heat or in tropical dampness the Camel Humidor Pack can be depended upon to deliver fresh Camels every time.

Smoke a FRESH cigarette

CAMELS are never parched or toasted

To know exactly the pleasures of true freshness in a cigarette: smoke a Camel.

In Portsmouth or in Honolulu, or wherever you are, you'll find a Camel light and fragrant, delicately mild—smooth and throat-friendly.

That's what true freshness means in the goodness of really fine tobaccos—choice, mild, sun-ripened tobaccos—the only kind that find their way into Camels.

The fine tobaccos in Camels are never parched or toasted—the Reynolds method of scientifically applying heat guarantees against that.

That's why Camels are fresh to start with, fresh with natural moisture. And the Camel Humidor Pack that shuts out ocean fog or desert air, delivers them to you fresh to smoke. Try just one day of the unalloyed smoke enjoyment of Camels—then leave them—if you can.
